MOTION CAPTURE PRODUCTION CHECKLIST

OPEN STANCE

Optical marker suit capture and animation coverage for Open Stance Gyeorugi.

VERSION	UPDATED	CHECKLIST ROWS	M1	M2	v1.0	FUTURE
0.6 draft	2026-11-04	1168	0	157	833	178

Gameplay scope follows Docs/GDD_Open_Stance.docx v0.11 (2026-10-16). Optical marker suit capture is the production method selected on 2026-10-29; this supersedes the undecided capture-method text in GDD 16.1 and 18.1. M1 uses placeholder animation only, with no motion capture: capture starts at M2, the first delivery priority within v1.0. Future work never blocks M2 or v1.0.

HOW TO USE THIS LIST

CHECKBOXES

COLUMN	TICK IT WHEN
Recorded	Every required variant has a usable take and a verified backup. For derived rows marked N/A, record the source clip IDs instead. Calibration rows use In engine = N/A.
Cleaned	Select and trim the take, correct marker labels and gaps before skeletal cleanup, then check contacts, pivots, spins and state endpoints. Derived rows require the assembled animation to pass the same checks.
In engine	Baked and retargeted to the matching skeleton; named correctly; tested in the relevant Montage, Blend Space or animation layer, including body, gear and transitions. Reference video alone is not completion.

PHASES

M1 Proof of concept (GDD 19 and 20.1): no motion capture. The Skill Stick and match run on placeholder animation; no row in this list is scheduled for M1.

M2 First motion capture and a basic local match. Capture first: optical pipeline test, fighting idle, movement, visible stance switch, roundhouse, side/cut and spin side kick; test spin hook tracking early; one captured roundhouse must replay in Unreal. Then lead/rear options, head kicks, punch, guards, reactions, clinch entry and separation, and match flow. If spins or jumps cannot be captured cleanly, use the GDD 16.4 and 20.1 placeholder fallback.

v1.0 Remaining capstone animation coverage: mapped techniques, all four guards, knockdowns, ceremony, officials, Career, grading, podium, menus and crowds. Jump variants normally reuse grounded captures plus shared launch and landing animation (GDD 16.4).

FUTURE After v1.0: unmapped techniques and clinch actions (GDD 9.4), video review, additional podium poses, team events, para and youth sets, and commentary. Do not schedule these before core coverage.

VARIANT SHORTHAND

TERM	MEANING
Left Lead & Right Lead	Capture Left Lead and Right Lead. Use the performer's left/right, not screen direction. Validate any approved mirroring for secondary motion in engine.
Lead leg & Rear leg	Front and back leg in each stance: four variant combinations before targets, movement and outcomes. A variant may need several takes; this is not a four-take session estimate.

Loop	Capture several clean cycles. Trim and match pose, foot contacts and bounce phase in cleanup; raw first and last frames need not match exactly.
Two performers	Capture both roles with distinct calibrated subjects only after a visibility test. Otherwise capture roles separately with shared floor marks, distance, timing and reference video; align contacts in cleanup.

CAPTURE RULES FOR EVERY TAKE

- Use a fitted optical marker suit. The lab operator confirms the actual full-body marker template, anatomical placement and solver. Docs/Mocap_Marker_Set.md proposes 41 markers; it is not a confirmed lab template. Extra foot markers help only if the solve uses them.
- Before performers start, the lab operator calibrates the camera volume and floor and checks the working area for marker visibility. Confirm camera coverage and suitable capture settings with a slow and a full-speed kick, turn and jump; record the actual rate and settings rather than assuming a rate.
- Calibrate each subject at the start of the session using the lab template's required static pose and ROM. T- and A-poses below are references unless the lab specifies them for calibration. Repeat subject calibration if marker placement changes; keep the subject/template with its trials.
- Performers wear the marker suit for every category. Dobok, match gear, coach clothes and referee uniform describe the final character appearance. For gear handling, use a real or stand-in prop only after testing clearance and marker visibility; never cover required markers.
- Slate the session date, performer/subject, shot ID, full variant, take and calibration reference in the trial name/log and reference video. Sync reference cameras to optical trials with a visible clap or stomp, or verified timecode.
- Capture about one second of pre-roll and post-roll in the required source and destination states. Combat clips usually return to guard; chambers, holds, falls, get-ups and ceremony use their listed endpoints. Keep continuous bounce cycles for loop trimming.
- Capture 3-5 takes for each required variant as a starting plan; inspect a trial before repeating a block. Keep natural acceleration and impact timing. Log the selected take and pickups needed.
- Retarget across the five GDD body types, checking Compact (165 cm) and Tall (192 cm) first. Also test every shipping male/female target: the current library has nine presets. Check foot contacts, reach, joints, gear clearance and root motion.
- Capture stationary and sliding versions of mapped kicks and punches (GDD 7.4). Section 19 gives explicit sliding rows and all eight direction codes. Keep the listed stance, striking leg/hand and target; record the actual root and foot travel rather than translating a stationary clip over planted feet.
- Capture plausible bounce/chamber starts, rechambers and forward/back/switched landings for each technique. Do not require every landing or a static chamber for every spin/jump. Share transitions and log source clip IDs; do not duplicate the same recording for CHM, KCK and TRN rows.
- Jump side, roundhouse, hook, axe and spin hook are derived from their grounded technique plus shared launch/landing (TRN-12). Keep their rows for assembly and engine acceptance; bespoke jump captures are optional pickups if reuse fails. The Tornado Kick requires its own capture.

- Record front and side reference video where practical; these cameras are references, not the optical solve. Log frame rate and sync offset. Record contact frames, planted feet, lift-off/landing and turns for cleanup.
- Inspect marker reconstruction, swaps and gaps before leaving the lab, especially during crossed limbs, spins, high kicks, floor work, props and partner contact. Fix labels before filling gaps; re-record obscured impact or landing when a credible solve cannot be recovered.
- Evaluate supporting-foot pivot, hip rotation, chamber, extension, rechamber, balance, landing and root trajectory. Do not smooth away kick acceleration or lock a foot that should pivot.
- The proposed body marker set does not capture finger articulation, toe curl or facial expressions. Hand-key these or use separate capture. This applies to fists, belt tying, glove/helmet handling, referee finger counts, clapping, speech and expressions.
- Falls use crash mats and performers able to fall safely; use controlled pad contact or acted reactions. Do not strike heads or groins to obtain reactions. Check mat/prop height and marker clearance before floor or partner work.
- Before leaving the lab, back up raw trials, calibrated subjects/templates, labeled processed calibration and motion C3D, reference videos, placement diagram, measurements and session settings. Collect solved skeleton FBX if available. Log units, axes, FPS and frame range.
- Prove one trial end to end: inspect the source solve, clean and bake in MotionBuilder, import to the matching MetaHuman skeleton or retarget a separate source, then save/reopen in Unreal. Check bare body, dobok and gear without a live capture connection. Marker-only C3D is not a finished animation.

NAMING

Raw trials: OS_<SessionDate>_<Subject>_<ID>_<ShortName>_<Variant>_T<take>, e.g. OS_20261029_P01_KCK-01_RoundBody_RearLeg_LeftLead_Stationary_Pad_T03. Include target, movement, outcome and landing in the variant/log when relevant. Unreal assets use underscores instead of hyphens (KCK_01) and omit the take suffix; keep a manifest linking each asset to its selected source trial and frame range. Sliding variants add SlideF, SlideB, SlideL, SlideR, SlideFL, SlideFR, SlideBL or SlideBR; use Still for the stationary baseline. For example, SLD-03_RoundBody_RearLeg_LeftLead_SlideF_Pad. Record slide distance and duration in the take manifest.

Counts are checklist rows, not recordings, takes or unique exported animations. Each row expands into its stated variants; calibration/reference and derived/reused rows are included. Shared source clips may satisfy several rows. Schedule only the needed phases and approved variants. SLD rows track sliding coverage separately from their stationary KCK/PNF sources; existing skip and counter captures can satisfy a direction when the motion matches.

1 CALIBRATION AND REFERENCE

Per performer/session: record the lab-required calibration and references before action trials. Repeat subject calibration after marker changes. The lab operator handles camera/floor calibration separately. These rows are references, not game animation assets.

2 READY STANCES, IDLES AND GUARDS

Capture at least 10 seconds of clean cycles per idle. Trim loops to matching contacts and bounce phase. High, Cross, Mixed and Low guard postures remain undefined in GDD 8.7: approve reference poses before final capture. The starting guard reuses one of those four, not a fifth guard.

3 FOOTWORK AND MOVEMENT

Record each move as a single step and as a repeated loop, in guard. These feed the movement Blend Space, so keep speed and bounce consistent. FTW-15/16 cover forward/back slides; FTW-32/33 add lateral/diagonal slides. These movement clips support, but do not replace, the sliding strike captures in section 19.

4 CHAMBERS

The chamber is the core of the Skill Stick system. Every chamber needs enter, hold loop and exit so techniques can branch from it.

5 KICKS

Rows cover technique families and their variants. Use the capture rules above to plan feasible targets, movement and outcomes; retain one trial as the source for shared transitions. Jump rows marked N/A in Recorded are derived by default. Body/head values are game-design values from GDD 8.3 and 9; animation alone does not establish a legal score. Use section 19 for sliding kick coverage; an entry step followed by a stationary strike does not establish a slide during the strike.

19 SLIDING STRIKE VARIATIONS

Record sliding kicks and punches as deliberate variations of the mapped techniques (GDD 7.4). The strike, leg/hand choice, target and points stay the same; the fighter travels through the technique. Capture an actual moving performance with its root path, support-foot pivot and landing.

Directions use the fighter facing the opponent at the start of the take: F forward, B back, L left, R right, FL forward-left, FR forward-right, BL back-left and BR back-right. Use all eight directions for full v1.0 coverage. For turns, keep the starting frame of reference and log the resulting path; slide direction and spin direction are separate variants.

First M2 priority: forward/back body side and roundhouse from both stances, with the applicable lead/rear leg choices. Capture their lateral and diagonal variants for v1.0. Add cut, spinning and punch slide coverage later in M2. Other rows follow their listed phase. Each row covers multiple variants, not one recording.

For each required direction, log source/destination stance, striking leg or hand, target height, slide displacement, duration, contact frame and take ID. Keep a stationary baseline. Capture the strike during the travel, not only after an entry step. Check stationary-to-slide, slide-to-still, slide-to-guard and fake-cancel transitions. Hit/miss/block and landing coverage can be shared by family; do not multiply every outcome into every combination.

SLD-09 to SLD-13 are derived by default from moving grounded sources plus TRN-12. Accept the assembled jump only after checking its root path, lift-off, landing and facing. Capture a dedicated moving jump if reuse fails. The travelling Tornado Kick needs a unique performance. Never force an awkward direction into a false foot slide; record the natural step/hop solution or flag that variant for a pickup.

20 COMBINATION MATRIX

Every combination of the mapped techniques in GDD 9.1 to 9.3, one row each, so nothing is missed: each technique by leg or hand, target and stance (Left Lead and Right Lead, the performer's own left and right), thrown from each of the four guards (GDD 7.3, 8.7). Then every fake, every guard hold, footwork in each guard and every guard change, every Active Defense action from every guard (GDD 8.8), and every technique from the clinch.
A row is complete when its own take exists: the guard the fighter starts in changes the arms, the chamber and the timing, so a take from one guard does not cover another, and a right-lead take is captured, not mirrored. The base rows in sections 5 to 7 hold the direction, notes and outcomes; outcomes (hit, miss, blocked) and sliding versions (section 19) stay shared by family and are not multiplied here.
Clinch rows record each technique thrown from chest-to-chest contact, in a closed clinch (both fighters in the same lead) and an open clinch (opposite leads). The game does not allow throws in the clinch yet (GDD 9.4, 11.3), so they are FUTURE and never block M2 or v1.0.

20.1 Techniques by leg, target, stance and guard (304 rows)
